

AgriFuture 2014 is coming and we're doing something new! When we initially started this conference, we wanted it to be a regional experience. This year, it is moving out of Wyoming and will be held in Kearney Nebraska! We're excited for the new venue and look forward to participants from Wyoming, Nebraska, Utah, Colorado, South Dakota and other states having the chance to make it to an AgriFuture Conference.

Each year, the AgriFuture conference has grown and improved and we see that trend continuing in Kearney on October 28-30, 2014. This conference is unique because it brings young people, producers, industry members, decision makers and others together to discuss and map the future of our industry. It provides a venue for remarkable ideas and insight on how we can collectively get through some of the challenges we all face today in order to reach the immense potential of agriculture. Through great speakers, productive brainstorming sessions, a beautiful setting in Laramie, and meaningful conversations, we hope to take another positive and important step toward the future and health of our industry.

This year's conference is shaping up to be another great experience for those attending. We have a great line up of speakers and a lot of opportunity for discussion/brainstorming throughout the conference. Take a look at the information from past conferences below to learn more about AgriFuture and take a look at this year's registration materials below. I hope to see you all there as we continue to chart the future of our industry.

Sincerely,
Jason Fearneyhough
Director, Wyoming Department of Agriculture
